At this time, The Security Centre Ltd and Solace Global advises against all travel to China, to Daegu, Cheongdo and Gyeongsan in South Korea, Iran and to Lombardy, Emilia Romagna, Marche, Piemonte and Veneto in Italy due to travel restrictions, cancelled flights, forced quarantines, government warnings and outbreak of COVID-19. Additionally, we advise against all non-essential travel to Hong Kong, Macau and the rest of Italy.

Latest Updates

The growth of case numbers continues to slow in China, with only an additional 44 being recorded between Sunday and Monday. Outside of Hubei province, restrictions are being relaxed as Beijing hopes to return to business as usual soon. Shanghai Disneyland has begun to reopen with limited facilities, signalling a potential improvement to the situation in China.

The COVID-19 outbreak in Italy is likely to have serious implications for the economy, as the productive northern regions are subjected to strict quarantine measures. A 7.5 billion Euro financial package has been approved, though the Italian airline, Alitalia, has announced that it will suspend all flight operations from Milan's Malpensa airport and operate reduced services for domestic flights from Linate airport. Some experts believe the quarantine measures may prove to be counter-productive, as individuals who have contracted the virus could be among those who fled the quarantine zones in panic before security forces were able to impose effective checkpoints, thus spreading the disease to the rest of Italy.

Qatari and Saudi Arabian authorities have announced that travellers from countries worst affected by the outbreak, such as Italy and South Korea, as well as other Gulf states, will temporarily be denied entry to the country. Qatar Airways has also suspended flights to and from Italy. Saudi citizens and residents have been prohibited from travelling to these countries, with commercial flights are also being suspended. In Egypt, health officials are travelling to Luxor in order to test tourists for the virus amid indications of a large outbreak. Cairo has reported the country's first death, a German tourist who was reportedly infected in Luxor but died in Hurghada.

European markets have opened down significantly on Monday morning, with the UK, Italian, French and German markets all recording an initial 8% drop. Though, at the time of writing, most had recovered to a 5 to 6% drop. In related news, it is expected that Saudi Arabia will increase its production from 9.75 million barrels a day in the first quarter of 2020 to 10.25 million barrels the second. This stance could see oil price fall below 20USD per barrel.

Region Specific Information (these restrictions remain fluid and are subject to change at short notice, keep up to date with potential restrictions if travelling)
Asia	China	Current Restrictions: The majority of Hubei Province. Elsewhere in the country, restrictions are being relaxed in an effort for businesses to return to normal.
		China is now restricting travel back to the country from destinations impacted by the outbreak.
	South Korea	Current Restrictions: Daegu, Cheongdo and Gyeongsan Despite the high case numbers, the outbreak in South Korea remains largely isolated to the cities of Daegu, Cheongdo and Gyeongsan. Indeed, of the 7,000+ cases in the country, 75 percent are reportedly in Daegu.
Outside of China and South Korea, case numbers are growing slower in Asia than in Europe. Japan now has more than 500 cases, not including those on the Diamond Princess that was quarantined in the port of Yokohama.
Europe	Italy	Current Restrictions: Emilia-Romagna, Lombardy, Marche, Piemonte and Veneto regions of Italy. Flight restrictions both domestically and internationally are being implemented.
		Outside of China, Italy has the most reported COVID-19 related deaths.

	Elsewhere in Europe, France, Germany and Spain are all seeing a growing increase in case numbers, with all three countries now reporting more than 1,000 cases.
Middle East	Iran	Current Restrictions: Tehran has implemented a number of internal restrictions on travel, while flights internationally are also being curtailed.
		The country, along with South Korea and Italy, is seeing a large day-on-day increase in COVID-19 cases, with many members of the government also reportedly ill with the virus. There are also fears that Tehran is not reporting the full extent of the outbreak in the country.
	The rest of the Middle East has only seen a limited number of cases, with Bahrain being the worst hit, with over 100 cases now being recorded. Travel restrictions are being implemented more widely in the region with Israel implementing widespread restrictions and Saudi Arabia barring entry to pilgrims as well as those coming from the worst hit countries. Saudi authorities have also restricted movement in and out of the Shia Qatif region.
Americas	At this time the Americas are the least impacted by the spread of COVID-19. However, the US is seeing a growing number of cases, while a cruise ship, the Grand Princess , is docking in Oakland with confirmed cases onboard. Its sister ship Regal Princess has also been denied docking in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.
International	As it stands, travellers from, or who have recently been to, China (including SARs and occasionally Taiwan), South Korea, Iran and Italy face a wide variety of restrictions depending on country. As case numbers increase in other countries, further restrictions are likely. Travellers should contact their relevant embassy for the latest information regarding entry restrictions, flight suspensions and current country advice.
TSCL and Solace Global Advice	Advise against all travel: Mainland China; Daegu, Cheongdo and Gyeongsan (South Korea); Iran; Lombardy, Emilia Romagna, Marche, Piemonte and Veneto regions (Italy)
	Advise against all but essential travel: Hong Kong, Macau, the rest of Italy
